Residency Surgeon

(4) I am very grateful to the Secretary for showing me this file, for it enables me to draw attention to a matter of considerable gravity. (E)

(5) It is noted that in their recommendations for revision of pay the Residency have recommended that the pay of future entrants to the Nursing Staff be reduced in consonance with that of other Government servants drawing equivalent rate of pay. In doing so the Residency were probably actuated by two motives: (1) uniformity in their recommendations; and (2) conformity with the post-revision rates of pay in the Madras Presidency.

(6) This office was not informed of the final proposals of the Residency, and in consequence was not able to represent the facts which I now put forward:—

(7) In proposing reductions the Residency apparently omitted to consider that the state of the market in the ordinary medical and clerical staff in India and that of Nursing staff, of the requisite standard, is very different. The former is already grossly over-crowded; so much so that my recent advertisement for a Sub Assistant Surgeon produced a 150 applications of which as many as 60 were from Medical graduates who were prepared to accept lower rates of pay and status for the sake of an assured livelihood. In the Nursing profession, however, it is increasingly difficult to obtain ladies of the required education and social standard either for the post of ■ European Sisters or for the subordinate posts of Staff Nurses. Especially is this so with European trained Sisters.

(8) It is to be noted, as the attached statement will establish, that these hospitals already compare unfavourably in their rates of pay to the Lady Superintendent and European Nursing Sisters with all other parts of India of equivalent status, excepting Madras. What the reasons actuating the Government of Madras may be, I cannot say; but I submit that our requirements in this personnel are at least as exacting as those not only in Madras but in Calcutta, Bombay, Lahore, Delhi or Rangoon.

(9) The climate of Bangalore is, it is true, an asset which is not possessed by the other places; but on the other hand our nurses and Nursing Sisters are expected to work very much harder, and have under their charge a far greater number of beds, and a correspondingly higher degree of responsibility than obtains in the other places quoted.

(10) I would here invite attention to my notes and to those of my predecessor on the subject of travelling allowance to Miss. D. Borland and would reiterate that the standard of nursing and of nurses' training in these hospitals is acknowledged throughout India as exceptional; and it would, in my opinion, be a calamity if this standard were to be reduced.

(11) Both my Lady Superintendent and myself view with grave misgivings the proposals to effect any reduction whatever in the rates of pay of the nursing staff, and the Lady Superintendent considers that such reduction coming as it does on the top of an already unfavourable rates of pay to which are added the Emergency Cuts at present enforced, and the already more exacting standard of training, work and responsibility, cannot fail to affect adversely the standard of future entrants to the posts of Nursing Sisters and Nursing Staff.

I, therefore, urge, with all the emphasis at my command, not only that the pay of the proposed Tutor-Sister be maintained at the rate at which it was sanctioned and be not reduced, but that also Government of India may be informed that the reductions proposed in the rates of pay of the Nursing Staff were included by over-sight and that the Residency recommend that these also be permitted to remain at their present rates.

I discussed this with Residency Surgeon last night. It appears that when we had to make recommendations for new scales of pay the local officers were all definitely against any reduction in any of the scales; and for that reason the Residency had to take it upon itself to recommend a general percentage cut in the scales of pay of all officers on the lines adopted by the Madras Government.

(14)

The main object of the Government of India in formulating new scales of pay for new entrants to services was to get down to the market rate. They had reason to believe that in many cases the old scales previously in force were considerably above the market rate. The general principle was that "Government should pay so much and so much only to their employees as is necessary to obtain recruits of the right stamp and to maintain them in such a degree of comfort and dignity as will shield them from temptation and keep them efficient for the term of their service." (This I believe is a quotation from the recommendations of the Islington Commission).

Residency Surgeon pointed out that on this basis it was perfectly reasonable to make a reduction in the scale of ~~pay~~ to be offered to future entrants in the case of medical and clerical staffs, both of these being over-stocked professions in which the supply is greatly in excess of the demand. He emphasised very strongly however, that conditions are quite the reverse in the case of European-trained Nursing Sisters. The profession is understocked; the existing rates of pay are barely sufficient to attract Nursing Sisters of the right type with European qualifications; and any reduction in the scale of pay offered must almost inevitably mean that candidates of the right type will not come forward.

(16) Residency Surgeon again emphasised the necessity of having a superior staff of Nurses with European qualifications in the Bowring and Lady Curzon Hospitals here. The hospitals are a training school for Nurses in India; and it is essential that the superior staff should consist of Nursing Sisters with recognised European qualifications. A very high standard of professional efficiency is demanded in the Hospital. Residency Surgeon says that the standard is higher than in any other hospitals he has known in India; and it would be a calamity if the standard had to be reduced. For obvious reasons also a very high standard of professional conduct and private behaviour is essential; and to set the necessary example in this respect one must have Nurses who have the professional traditions of the big English hospitals behind them. There are many other points which Residency Surgeon enumerated; but these are some of the more important of them. He emphasised that there was no need for us to follow [redacted] the Madras Government lead, and in fact gave some fairly strong reasons why we should not follow Madras.

(17) In the particular case of the Tutor Sister whom we now require, Residency Surgeon pointed out that the intention is that this Sister should in due course of time take the place of Miss Berry as Lady Superintendent, when the latter retires from the hospital. For this reason, apart from any other considerations, it is important that the Sister selected should be a person of outstanding personality and first class qualifications. Residency Surgeon has been in communication with the Matron of Guy's Hospital, London, and has just such a Sister in mind. He understands that the Sister would be prepared to accept [redacted] appoint[redacted] appointment on the old scale of pay; but he feels very doubtful whether she would see her way to accept it on a reduced scale.

(18) I have placed immediately below these notes a rough outline draft for a telegraphic reply to the Government of India. Will Office please work this up into a proper draft and send the file to me to Mercara so that I can discuss it with Resident there. The file should be sent with my camp clerk tonight if possible; otherwise it must be sent tomorrow without fail.

(19) Residency Surgeon will now address Surgeons General all over India in order to ascertain what revised scales, if any, they have recommended for European-trained Sisters and Staff Nurses. If it is found that a general reduction has been proposed for them all over India and that our revised scales from Bangalore are not materially different from other scales which have been suggested for other parts of India, Residency Surgeon will not ask to take the question further, and will be prepared to let experience show whether the new scales ~~for any~~ have fallen below the market rate or not. But if our new scales are found to be materially lower than those proposed for other parts of India, Residency Surgeon will ask us to revise our recommendations so as to bring them more into conformity with the recommendations made for hospitals of similar status in other parts of India — not only for Bangalore, where conditions are peculiar.

It will be necessary for Govt: to convince us that new rates proposed are inadequate as our proposals are before Govt: the matter is one of urgency. In this connection it is necessary to remember that, despite the fact that our present rates are below those of other big hospitals in India it is claimed that the standard of nursing in our hospitals is very high

YOUR TELEGRAM 268/E APRIL 9th.

ON BASIS OF RECOMMENDATIONS CONTAINED IN MY EXPRESS LETTER No.9553/297-1932 DATED 2nd OCTOBER 1933 FUTURE SCALE OF PAY FOR TUTOR SISTER WOULD BE Rs.175-15/2-220. NEW SCALES OF PAY PROPOSED IN THAT LETTER ARE SAME AS PROPOSED BY MADRAS GOVERNMENT BUT RESIDENCY SURGEON BELIEVES THAT THEY ARE BELOW RATES PROPOSED FOR OTHER BIG HOSPITALS IN INDIA AND HAS EXPRESSED GRAVE FEAR THAT THEY WILL BE INSUFFICIENT TO ATTRACT EUROPEAN TRAINED NURSES WITH REQUISITE STANDARD OF QUALIFICATIONS. I AM TAKING SUCH STEPS AS ARE POSSIBLE TO VERIFY THESE CONTENTIONS AND IF FOUND TO BE CORRECT I MAY HAVE TO REVISE MY RECOMMENDATIONS IN RESPECT OF NURSING SISTERS OF THIS CATEGORY.

MEANWHILE I RECOMMEND THAT EXISTING SCALE OF Rs.200-10-250 BE MAINTAINED IN CASE OF TUTOR SISTER. FURTHER REASON FOR MAINTAINING EXISTING SCALE IN HER CASE IS THAT TUTOR SISTER MUST BE FITTED TO TAKE PLACE OF LADY SUPERINTENDENT IN FEW YEARS TIME WHEN LATTER RETIRES

My dear Edwards,

I enclose a copy of a letter from the Matron of Guy's Hospital, which I think speaks for itself.

You will note the attitude taken by Miss Mac Manus on the responsibilities of Nursing Sisters; and I am more gratified than I can say that the Residency have recommended that her pay should remain at the original figure.

Meanwhile evidence is accumulating that the case for reconsideration of the proposed reductions in Nursing Staff generally is going to be a very strong one. Investigation has shown that the Residency authorities when they made the comparative statement with Madras rates did not include the revised rates for Sisters recruited in Europe. Even in Madras these rates are higher than our present rates for the same personnel.

Yours sincerely,

Letter dated 8th May 1934 from Miss. E.E. MacManus, Matron, Guy's Hospital, London S.E.1., to Lt.-Col., J.B. Hance, I.M.S., Residency Surgeon, Bangalore.

Thank you for your letter of April 15th. I have laid before Miss. Lucas the information which you have given me regarding the reduction of salaries for Sister Tutors, and she is still prepared to go to you if she hears from the Indian Office.

I think Miss Lucas is disappointed to hear of the proposed reduction of salary, and I would like you to know how strongly I feel that Sister Tutors' salaries should be generous. If they do their work perfectly, they have to posses qualities which are very much in excess of those required of Ward Sisters alone. In effect, a good Sister Tutor should be a first class Ward Sister, and also a qualified teacher.

As a teacher, she will have to prepare all lectures and classes in her free time, or rather what would be her free time if she had been a Ward Sister the reputation of the Nursing School, as a School, she fully shares with the Matron.

In this circumstance, I would urge that if you have any opportunity of doing so, you would put this view, regarding the undesirability of reducing the Sister Tutors' salaries, before the responsible officials.

I hope Miss Lucas will be a success with you. She is a most loyal and hardworking Sister, and she is beloved of her patients. Her manner is a little reserved so that it takes a little time to know her.

With kind regards,
